Mr. Wm. P. Painter of Mamphis, Tenn., is in the city, the guest of the Wa-yerly House. My. Miss Nelly Byrd, the young and bewitching travelling agent of the Sunny C ce South, illuminated our sanctum with her bright countenance last Friday. Miss Byrd has just made a tour of the State, and despite the hard times has been quite successful in swelling the subscription list of her paper. The Sunny South is an excellent literary paper, and is very cheap at $2 a year. Although the paper has a good list of subscribers at Anderson, Miss Byrd, by her winning and pleasing maniers, secured a number of new names.

Our young friend, Irvine Twitty, one of Messrs. Crayton & Sons' handsome clerks, has received from a Western friend quite a curiosity. It is a species of a bat, called by naturalists the Drenabati

Mr. C. C. Habenicht, one of Columbia's substantial and popular citizens, has been in the city for a day or two. On Friday evening he made a donation of $10 to the Pioncer Fire Company, which is the largest single donation the Company has yet received. Such gifts are highly appreciated by the Pioncers, who will no doubt place Mr. Habenicht's name on their honorary roll. Since the above was put in type we learn that Mr. "Whack" Bailey, the popular representative of Reab, O'Connor & Bailey, wholesale liquor merchants, has also contributed $5 to the Pioneors.

The Pioneer Fire Company has received and accepted an invitation to attend the Firemens' Tournament at Greenville on the 24th and 25th inst. The running team has been selected, and the boys have gone to work in earnest practicing for the occasion. Greenville is making extensive preparatious for the Tournament, which promises to be a big affair. A low rate of are has been secured from all the stations dong the C. & G. R. R. The round trip fare from Anderson is $1.00, tickets good for three days. This low rate should induce a large attendance of our people. There is not much business on the railroad at present, and the authorities, we think, could well afford to run an extra train from Anderson to Greenville and return on each day of the Tournament. A large crowd, we venture, would attend the Tournament from here if they could go and return the same day. If the railroad authorities will carry out this suggestion, we guarantee it will pay them. The McCormick Advance, of the 4th

The work of laying the super-structure will comm e in a few days. We are also informed that the Road will be completed as far up as Mt. Carmel in time for the next crop of cotton. The planters on the line of the Road have much to be proud of for the reason that, although many obstacles have been thrown in the way of building the Road, yet by the indomitable energy and perseverance Mr. and Mrs. J. Pink Reed have the of the officers and stockholders they have ympathies of many friends in the death | made a success, and that they will soon hear the sound of the whistle of the engine as it passes the forests and fertile fields of the Savannah Valley." Tho Adrance also says: "The first shipment to the Savannah Valley Railroad arrived in McCormick last Tuesday, consisting of spikes, bolts, etc., farnished by the Centrai Road. It looks now as if work will begin at once. Capt. Estes is building the side-track of S. V. R. R. at present."

Peter Waddleton, colored, who was porhaps the oldest person in this section of the State, died last Saturday at his ome near the eastern suburbs of the city. 'Uncle Peter," as he was familiarly called, was for many years prior to the war the property of Mr. Valentine Fant, deceased, father of our present Chief of Police. He was born and reared in Virginia, having been brought to South Carolina when a young man by the Nevitt family. In the year 1812, owing to the leath of his owner, Peter was sold at auction, the bill of sale putting him down at 28 years of age. According to this he was death. He claimed to be five years older, however, than he was accredited in the bill of sale, which would make him at the time of his derth 106 years old. "Unclo Peter' was strictly honest, and was never known to have been engaged in an offence of any kind. He had the confidence of every one who knew him. Before the war he often visited Augusta alone with a load of cotton, which he would sell and return home with the preseeds to his master. He was always remarkably stout and healthy, and up to a few weeks ago was able to go about and do light jobs of work. He owned a little piece of land, which he always planted and worked himself. He had a very retentive memory, and could relate things that happened at the beginning of this

The Conclusion of the Anderson Military School Commencement.

In accordance with the programme the annual Plume Drill of the cadets took place on Wednesday afternoon of last week at 6 o'clock on the Court House Square. At that hour a very large crowd, the major part of which were ladies, had assembled on the Square to witness the drill. The Company paraded for some time, and was finally formed in line oppo-alte Briek Range, when the contest for the lume began. Capts T. F. Hill and J. E. Allen and Sergt. Foster Fant were the judges. The drill in the manual continned for some time, and the cadets gradually dropped out until the contest narrowed down to Cadets Raymond Beaty, W. N. Miller and Alexis Ford, These young gentlemen vied with each other for about fifteen minutes, and it was evident that the judges had no casy task before them in deciding who was entitled to the plume. Finally the plume was awarded to Cadet Raymond Beaty. Gen. Capers then stepped forward and presented the plume to Mr. Benty, and in a fow interesting remarks complimented the cadets on their drill and general appearance.

success. We cannot close our report without adding a word in commendation of this popular school. Since its beginning it nas grown more popular every session, as its large roll of students will show. The reputation of the school, too, is not conned to our own County, but it is attracting the attention of parents from almost every section of the State. Messrs. Ligon & Reed, the Principals, are thorough scholars, with years of experience, and when a boy is put under their charge they know exactly how to train his mind. The recitation rooms are supplied with the latest improved desks, maps, &c., besides being well ventilated, comfortable and commodious. Parents who have boys to educate could do no better than place them in the Anderson Military School.

The Anderson Female Seminary Com

The Fifth Annual Commencement of this deservedly popular educational institute came off last week, embracing Thursday evening, Friday morning and

Friday evening.

The occasion had been the talk of the own for several weeks prior, and of course the friends and pupils of the Semnary looked forward to the time with pleasant anticipations. With each succeeding year the interest in these annual lemonstrations seem to be on the increase, and the attendance of visitors from a distauce this year was larger than any preseding year.

The exercises were held in the Baptist Church, which had been kindly tendered Gen. Ayer for that purpose, the Seminary buildings being inadequate to accommodate the crowd. According to the programme the exercises were to begin at 81 clock, but long before that hour on Thursday evening crowds of people were wending their way to the church, each one desirous of getting the best seat possible to witness the exercises. When the hour arrived for the opening of the exercises, every available seat in the edifice trum gave evidence that dextrous hands had been engaged at work there. The trum sat the pupils of the Seminary, each of whom looked as pretty as a pink.

The exercises were opened with a fervent prayer by Rev. J. W. Wolling. The first thing on the programme was the rendition of the beautiful Cantata, "Faith, Hope and Charity," which was participated in by the little girls-about thirty in number—of the Primary Department. Miss Nellie Towers, a charming little lassie, was the Queen, and was attended by a number of beautiful Maids of Honor, each of whom sang their part in a manner that attracted the admiration of each spectator. The Cantata was exceedingly interesting and highly enjoyed by the large audience. At the conclusion of the Cantata, Gen. Ayer stepped forward, and, in a few appropriate remarks, introduced Rev. T. P. Bell, who had been invited to address the young ladies of the Etochean Society about 101 years old at the time of his Mr. Bell said he appreciated the compliment for baving been spleoted as the orator for the first anniversary of the Society. The scene before him made him wish that he were a boy again. He announced for his subject "The Girl of the Period," which he discussed in an eloquent, scholarly manner. He said that the girls of to-day had better advantages, and were more enlightened than their mothera, There was no excuse for a girl to grow up ignorant, and if she failed to secure her portion of knowledge it was her own fault. He urged the young ladies to keep posted in the current events of the day. Many of them perhaps would have to fight their own battle through life, and they should be prepared for it. The true girl of our period was the independent girl, and she should be encouraged. The girl who knew how to use the telegraph key was just as worthy as the one who tipped the ivory keys of the plane. The address was replete with aminations of the pupils, interspersed with beautiful selections of instrumental and vocal music. The examinations of the popils in their various studies had Beaty's father in the late war, and on been rigid and thorough, and showed every battle-field found him a true sol-

an Education Miss Lucillo Nardin-"Classical and English Literature."

In their casays these young ladies ovinced a high grade of intellectual attainments, at the same time showing a thorough mental training. The essays were written in an easy, gracoful style, and the subjects treated in an able manner. Gen. Ayer, in a few interesting and appropriate remarks, presented the diplomas to the graduates, who received them amid the applause of the audience. This terminated the Fifth Annual Comnencement of the Seminary. Through-and entertaining. The Seminary has closed the most successful session in its history, the roll of pupils numbering one hundred and forty. Such an educational institution is a credit to any community. Long may the Sem-inary live and prosper.

Description of the Sandy Springs Cyclone. MR. EDITOR: As a matter of information to your readers, I will tell you in the following what I saw of the cyclone on the 27th of May, and what I have seen since of its results:

While standing in the door of J. W. Major's house on that evening about two o'clock, I saw three clouds moving in different directions, and when they met over T. E. Dickson's home, as they seemed to metho whole mass of clouds or the blackness turned toward the earth. It was a grand, but a fearful scene. It looked like a monstrous elephant falling. The moment it struck the ground the work of destruction began. It did not strike the ground with much force until it had passed T. L. Reids's residence, where it commenced its terrible execution. Its direction was from a little south of west to a little north of east. The cyclone blow down every one of the outbuildings on J. W. Major's plantation, except a was occupied, and those who arrived late had to stand up.

A large temporary rostrum had been off of the dwelling house and injured, to a considerable extent, the inside work. On the wall in the rear of the rostrum, in bold letters, were the words, "Anderson Female Seminary—Excelsior." The floral decorations above and around the rostrum also a hard rain with the cyclone. The floral control of the dwelling house and injured, to a considerable extent, the inside work. Every thing in the house, very nearly, was exposed to a hard rain, which immediately followed the wind. There was also a hard rain with the cyclone. The floral control of the dwelling house and injured, to a considerable extent, the inside work. Coffee, Flour, Bacon. Corn, Molasses, and everything you need in Dry Goods, Notions, Shoes, Hats and Groceries. Be sure to see us before you spend your money during the next two months. Our prices will please you. wind blow down the most of the outbuildings for Messrs. D. A. and Andrew whole arrangement was very neat and Elrod. The top of Andrew Elrod's house tasty. Immediately in front of the ros- was partly blown off and a tenant house torn down to the sills, every thing in it, owned by Jas. McClue, was utterly ruined. Some one ought to help a little. Mr. Andrew Elrod had a buggy literally torn to atoms. It was not a fine one but a good one. While the cyclone only blew the tops off of two of R. B. Brock's outbuildings, yet it did him very great damage in blowing off his young cotton, and the fine timber it blew down. It destroyed about a bale of cotton for D-A. Elrod, two for R. B. Brock, one for Mrs. J. W. Major, one and a half for Andrew Elrod. For the same persons the evelone almost ruined their orchards. On J. W. Major's place, five large June apple trees, heavy loaded with fruit, were blown clear up by the roots. Others suffered considerable loss. Messrs. Peter and John McPhail, J. M. Blackman and Kay. Fortunately for the most of those over whom this cyclone passed, it did not touch the earth. It kept itself more in the atmosphere than any I have ever seen. There is no doubt as to whether it was a cyclone, for it had the retary movement. When any one sees the width and direction of one of these storms, it is too

Its width was about one-sixth of a mile Mr. D. A. Elrod's family was not a home. Mrs. J. W. Major and son saved their lives, perhaps, by getting into their cyclone pit. Mr. Andrew Elrod's family went into their cellar. I don't believe any man can keep from being somewhat uncomfortable while a wind of this kind is going over. The noise was like unto thousand reapers. It is a solutely won derful that no one got hurt. The stables were blown to the sills from over Mr. J. W. Major's horse and mul. and neither were hurt seriously. I would, in the name of all so badly damaged in the recent cyclone, thank the community for their generosity and kindness toward them. I also hope, that I in y never be an eye-witness to another such wind.

Skin Diseases. Skin Diseases.

I have a little daughter seven years old, who for the last four years has been afflicted with a peculiar skin eruption on the face and one hand. I have tried seven or eight physicians, among them the best in California and in this province, but to no purpose. The child kept growing worse. Fortunately, I saw a statement in a St. Paul, Minn., paper, of a cure of a disease similar to that of my child. It was affected by Swift's Specific. I secured six bottles and commenced giving it to my little girl. In less than one week this terrible disease, which had baffied all the known remedies within reach, began to disappear. She has been reach, began to disappear. She has been taking it three months—is perfectly well, and her skin is as clear as wax.

OUR INVITATION TO ALL COME

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE.

WE are again in the lead, and ready for action with a mammoth stock of—

New Spring Goods,

Such as are usually kopt in a first-class Dry Goods House. Don't fail to see our large and complete assortment. We consider it a pleasure to show goods.

Now, all we ask is for you to come and give us a chance to show you the Goods. If you don't buy it will not be our fault.

Life is too short to be squandered in the attempt to do business in the ordinary humdrum method, and we are determined to crowd as much as possible in the short space allotted to us.

We advertise nothing but what we are ready to perform; and having on hand a large stock of good Goods, we are confident we can please you.

We want to remind you that it is as much a part of our business to satisfy our customers as to sell Goods, and we don't want anybody's money unless we can give them a fair equivalent. Now, we mean last that. Everybody knows very well that one of the best ways to save money is to buy Goods of W. A. CHAPMAN.

The A, B, C of our business:

ATTRACTIVE GOODS. DMIRABLE ASSORTMENT, ATTENTIVE CLERKS, BIG VARIETY, DOTTOM PRICES.

COMPARE OUR STOCK, ONSIDER THE SAVING. And you will be convinced of what I say. Yours, very respectfully, W. A. CHAPMAN.
